YLHA Has Busy Future

Zoning by initiative, future of Nixon Park and nomination of candidates for the board of directors highlighted the first General Assembly meeting of the Yorba Linda Homeowners Association last week.

Between 60 and 70 persons attended the session with 15 of them paying the $5 fee to join the group which has recently been revived.

Attorney Sid Radus reported on a recent State Supreme Court decision which for the first time in 47 years, gives citizens the right, by initiative, to have a say in how land will be zoned. Radus said that an old decision was reversed and, as a byproduct, ended an injunction against local residents.

The attorney said that "zoning is the name of the game" in Yorba Linda. He recounted how the early YLHA had been successful in just one of several attempts to regulate zoning.

He said that incorporation of the city 10 years ago was predicated on zoning controversy but, because of the makeup of the City Council then, the situation didn't change much from what it had been under the county.

David Dunn, speaking for the real estate representatives of Southern Pacific Railroad, told of indefinite plans to convert railroad property between Yorba Linda and Imperial extending to Lemon including Nixon Park, into a shopping center.

City Council, when learning recently that there were such plans, voted to put the matter of a bond issue to finance purchase of the park site before the voters at a special election on May 31.

The association was seeking to determine the feeling of its membership on the matter. It was decided that present information is too vague. An ad hoc committee of the interim board of directors will study the matter with the proposed developers.

Dunn urged that the YLHA and other residents propose plans and ideas for the type of center which would best correlate with the city. He said developers had in mind a "Theme park" but could not say what that theme would be. It was this type of thinking that he solicited.

A nominating committee proposed a slate of directors who would be elected through a mail vote and who then would elect officers.

Kitchen Use Study

The new Central Kitchen to be built with other facilities at the Casa Loma site of the Yorba Linda School District will be able to handle 5,000 meals per day.

That will be sufficient if the district is transformed from an elementary to a unified one. In the meantime, the excess capacity may get some outside use.

District Deputy Superintendent Elton Patridge got trustee approval to talk to other districts, private schools and non-educational groups about utilizing the facilities.

Patridge said he would approach other districts about using their personnel to prepare lunches which would include the YLSD lunches. He added that such programs as Meals on Wheels might also be interested. Patridge said that a daily average of 2,000 meals should be served from the kitchen to make it operational.

The trustees expressed concern over the possible cutback of services to the district by the County Council. A new state law restricts what has been, up to now, free services from the council.

Patridge reported that the Board of Supervisors has interpreted the law in such a manner as to provide only minimal legal services to schools. Patridge said that he would participate in committee studies aimed at resolving the situation to the benefit of the districts.

Superintendent Sterling Fox won approval of investigating a possible exchange program that would have a district teacher exchange a school year with a teacher from Hawaii.

Junior High Education Strong, But...

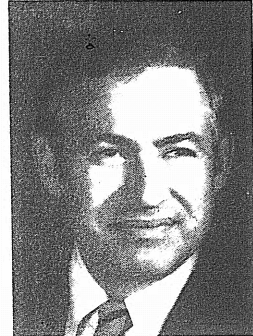

Students currently attending the seventh and eighth grades at the junior high school in the Yorba Linda School District benefit from a strong educational program but it could be strengthened in several areas.

This was the conclusion to be drawn from a report submitted to district trustees by an ad hoc committee which studied the program for three months.

Cromwell Heads County Seniors

Walter Cromwell, former Yorba Linda mayor, present city councilman and current head of the county association of senior citizen organization presidents, has taken over the leadership of the Orange County Senior Citizens' Council.

The council represents the interests of the county's 250,000 seniors before county government. It is the official advisory group on elderly affairs to the Board of Supervisors and County Senior Citizens Program Office.

Cromwell, 60, won out in a 10-7 vote over Herb Eggett, retired Anaheim businessman, council vice chairman and head of the Council's transportation committee. Cromwell succeeds Al Harrison, Anaheim, appointee of Supervisor Ralph Clark.

The new Council chairman has been a firm advocate of better housing and recreation opportunities for seniors. He has an extensive record of community service, a trustee in Orange County and is a U.S. Navy veteran.

Cromwell is the third council chairman and the first from a smaller city in the county since the office was created by county supervisors in August 14, 1973.

Council members selected as vice chairman Dr. John Bode, chairman of the Faculty Council at California State University-Fullerton and regarded as an expert on the problems of the elderly.

Chosen secretary was Ms. Sema Levinson, Las Vegas, retired social services executive and chairperson of the Orange County Council on Aging, Inc., a non-profit community service organization. She succeeds Joan Forbath, Costa Mesa.

Peter Lachina, Cypress, was named for another at-large term to the county's executive committee. Other members of the committee are the council's officers and the immediate past chairman.

Conserve Water!

"Save money and water too," said President Fred Clodt of the Yorba Linda County Water District. "We must cut our use of water by a minimum of 10% right now."

This is in keeping with Governor Brown's urging a cut of 25% while the Metropolitan Water District requests a 10% cut.

The District board of directors at their last meeting passed a resolution "supporting all efforts to reduce water waste and a request to all citizens of the District to conserve water."

Plugs Tax Relief

Suggested tax reform, that would bring some relief to the burdened homeowner, was scheduled to be discussed Tuesday by members of the Orange County Property Tax Reform Committee before the Orange County Board of Supervisors.

A seven point program, under consideration since last November seeks to "alleviate the excessive property tax burden currently borne by homeowners and to make changes in the tax structure that would prevent these excesses from recurring."

The seven recommendations include: 1. In order to provide immediate relief to homeowners, the committee recommends an increase in the homeowner exemption from the current $1,750 of assessed valuation to $5,000 assessed valuation with an equivalent program for renters.

2. Recognizing that the spiraling cost of local government is frequently tied to programs mandated but not financed by other levels of government, the committee feels it is vital that any legislative body be constitutionally required by amendment to fully fund all programs it mandates.

3. The committee supports the establishment of a split tax roll between owner occupied residences and other properties. Different tax rates for the two rolls would provide that the intent and result of such a split roll is to retain the current proportions paid by homeowners and by owners of other properties.

4. The committee further feels it order not to excessively burden business and industry under any tax reform program, the business inventory tax should be abolished.

5. The committee feels that the property tax should be used to support property related services only. While the committee recognizes that the division between property related and non property related services is not entirely clear, [Continued on Page 2]

Chino Hills Park

A first substantial effort to convert the expanse of the Chino Hills, long threatened by an international airport, into a wilderness and open space area, was reported by a task force meeting with the state of California last week.

Sam Cooper, mayor pro tem of Brea, chairman of the Chino Hills Open Space Committee, reported that progress has been made.

"The state made a commitment to participate, equally with the four counties involved in a feasibility study," Cooper related. "Each county represented agreed to authorize a member of their staff to participate in the preparation of a feasibility study."

"The feasibility study will consider approximately 8,000 to 12,000 acres for park purposes. September 1 was agreed to as a target date for all cooperating agencies to complete the study."

The meeting, Cooper reported was attended by representatives from the four counties of Orange, Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Riverside; the state of California, the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG), Senator John Briggs office, Assemblyman Bruce Nestande's office and the city of Brea.

Cooper explained that a completed outline drawn up by the four counties will be required for submittal to the state of California prior to any expenditures by the state for the proposed park or an open space area.

Approximately 68,000 acres are involved in the study area, Cooper added. "The challenge will be to determine the possible park area that will be satisfactory to the state and the four counties involved. Working together was the central goal of those who attended the meeting."

Cooper explained that this is the first time that the state of California has made any commitment for such a study.

Child Abuse Program

A child has a right to a happy and healthy life just like an adult has. Yet, annually in the U.S. alone, 300,000 children are reported to be emotionally and physically abused by adults. Fifty thousand of them die. Many more thousands of cases go unreported and even untreated.

Responding to rising public alarm about the abuse of children, the Linda Vista School PTA of Yorba Linda has arranged for a child abuse program to be presented as a community service, free of charge, to point out the need for effective parent education.

The program will be held in the Yorba Linda District Library's multipurpose room located at Imperial and Plumosa Drive, March 15, at 7:30 p.m.

Diane Hutchinson, president of the Linda Vista School PTA, stresses that parents, teachers and other concerned persons from the community are encouraged to attend.

Jim Mead, a former Brea police officer will present the abuse program entitled "Effective Parenting," featuring a slide program, display and audience participation.

Mead, a family man with three children of his own and foster father of several battered children, is considered an expert in the subject of child abuse and with the help of his wife and volunteers has established a non-profit corporation called "For Kids Sake."

He has set up a 24-hour-a-day hot line for distraught or disturbed potential abusers to call in and talk out their frustrations or obtain referral to public and private agencies.

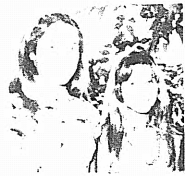

Mead spends all of his off-duty time and vacations lecturing and speaking to civic groups and says he will also travel anywhere to speak to any group on the subject "if they'll get me there." That's all he asks.

the site—but suggested something less than complete replanning could solve the problems.

Wedaa objected, stating that "major surgery" would be needed on the structure, which he likened in appearance to a "blockhouse" or a "parking garage". Councilman Dale Chaput agreed, calling the project "ill-conceived from the start."

"It really doesn't fit in that area," Chaput declared.

Councilman Whit Cromwell defended the proposal, saying that if the city wished not to have two-story commercial buildings, the zoning ordinance should have been changed to reflect this. He termed the effort to stop the building a "violation of personal freedom."

Finally, in a spirit of compromise, the new mayor suggested continuing the question for two weeks—with the applicant's consent—to allow Gate and Gibson to work with city staff on resolving the problems. Gate refused.

And Council voted to rescind approval of the building.

In other business, Council:

- authorized staff to solicit bids on planned improvements on Main Street according to City Engineer

Roy Stephenson, total cost of the project is estimated at $125,000, of which a federal grant will cover $104,000 for construction and about $17,000 for administrative and engineering costs; work is scheduled to begin April 18 and to end by July 15.

- heard resident Jackie Harrison argue that an alleged violation of the Brown Act by the city beautification committee never took place (Council, refusing to get involved in the issue again, declined to take any action; Harrison threatened to take the matter to the attorney general);

- accepted a suggestion by Wedaa that they examine at their April 4 meeting proposals submitted by private citizens for a suitable memorial to city founder George Machado, who died last year (proposals may still be made until then);

- approved a four-way stop for the intersection of Grandview and Mountain View avenues and a stop sign for south-bound Avenida Rio del Oro at Yorba Linda Boulevard; and

- consented to closing Van Buren Street between Buena Vista and city limits for some 30 days to accommodate construction in the area by the City of Placentia.

Water...

winter on the average by Yorba Linda families. In the summer time the consumption is almost double the winter usage.

How much water do you use? Do you have a leak in your piping, the toilet, at the faucet, or in the shower? Find out for yourself. Locate your water meter. Take a reading.

Keep all the faucets shut off, and do not flush the toilet for one hour. Read the meter again. If there was no movement, you have a tight system. But if it did move and there was no one running any water, you have troubles.

Often the leaks need only simple washers which are easily replaced. But if it is a bigger job than you wish to tackle, call a plumber. It just might be that getting an expert will save time and money in the long run.

How much water does your family use each day? Here is an easy way to find out. The 9,000 District water bills are mailed on a staggered basis covering the preceding two months.

Your bill will indicate water consumption in hundred cubic foot units. To translate that to gallons per day, multiply your billing units by 12.5. Now you know the number of gallons your family uses daily.

The national average is just 64 gallons a day per person. Think that you might be able to conserve a bit?

Restaurant managers report that only one out of ten people actually drink water while dining. This means that nine glasses of water are wasted, plus the added two glasses of water necessary to wash the used glasses. Double rinsing of your hair at the beauty or barber shop is unnecessary. One good shampoo does the job.

A letter is in process to all high commercial users of water to encourage them to reduce their waste.

Here are some ideas on how you, too, might at home can save water:

1. Place a half gallon plastic bottle filled with sand or rocks in the toilet tank.
2. Less frequent but deep watering of lawns; watch for run off; the concrete won't grow.
3. Wash your car less frequently—use a bucket.
4. Install "low flow" shower heads.
5. Use faucet flow restrictors.
6. Fix dripping faucets.
7. Wash a full load of clothes.
8. Wash a full load of dishes.
9. Wash dishes by hand, save even more water.
10. Store water to drink in the refrigerator rather than let the water run at the tap until cool.
11. Take shorter showers.
12. Fill the tub only 1/4 full.
13. When wet shaving, hold rinse water in the bowl.
14. Brush and rinse teeth from a glass of water.
15. To clean sidewalks and driveways, sweep.
16. Use stopper in the sink when washing hands.
17. Use one less ice cube in your cold drink.

"Let's all work together on saving water. The state-wide shortage can not last forever. Then we can go from 'brown lawns are beautiful' to 'green and clean are keen'". concluded President Clodi.

Jr. High...

Kinan, were at a recent board meeting and participated in a lengthy discussion with the trustees about the report.

To improve the program, the report recommended several steps which the district should pursue, some of them as soon as possible. Some program innovations or restorations would not cost any money but those which would amount to approximately $100,000.

The committee rejected a complete reorganization of the junior high program. Programs investigated by visiting several other districts but not recommended included one which would be at the "middle school" level or fifth through eighth grades.

The four immediate needs were listed by the committee as: restoring the seven period day with three additional classroom teachers, the hiring of two counselors, renewing extracurricular activities and the employment of a school nurse.

Five other recommendations would: provide books on a one-to-one basis, set aside eight minimum days for teacher programs on an inter-school and intra-school basis, establishing a district community relations program, encouraging teacher training programs and using extra clerical workers to handle paperwork at the beginning of the school year.

The committee advised that "weaknesses" in the program included: a shortage of opportunities for exploration into elective subjects for students, need for a counselor and/or nurse to meet "emotional needs of adolescents" and shortages of textbooks.

Despite the shortcomings the committee found that the program has many strong points. Among them is personalized instruction, excellent teacher/student, teacher/administration rapport; an exceptional program for remedial reading and an adequate library learning center.

The committee called the report "a beginning, not the end." That was agreed to by the trustees when they met Thursday, March 10 as the date for a workshop to delve deeply into the report with the committee. The workshop will precede the board's regular bi-monthly meeting.

Kristin Visits Nixon

(Kristin Mohn, a fifth grader at Mabel Paine School, accompanied her mother and other members of the Yorba Linda Service League, to San Clemente to obtain items from former President Richard Nixon to be placed in the city's Time Capsule. Her account of the experience.)

By Kristin Mohn

We went to President Nixon's office in San Clemente to get a little book he donated for the Yorba Linda Time Capsule to be opened in 2076. Mr. Nixon wrote a sentence in it that said: "I have pride in my Yorba Linda heritage. Richard M. Nixon." Then it had a picture of Mr. Nixon, himself.

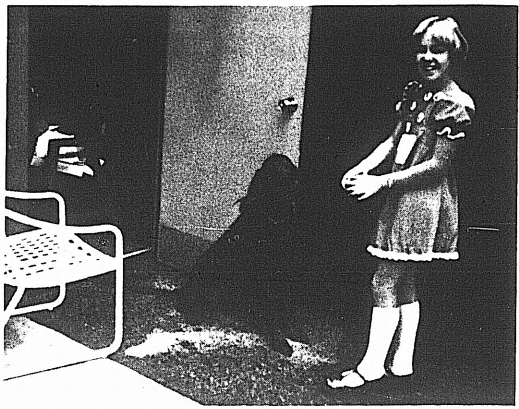

When we got to the gates, it had a phone and a speaker that you talk into to identify yourself. Then the big gates opened and we drove through. We were met by his secretary, Miss Gaunt.

She showed us some pictures of the Nixons. Then she showed us all around the buildings and grounds. They even had a soft drink machine where you didn't have to put any money to get a soft drink. We saw and fed his dog, King Timaco, who was allowed to wander all around.

His secretary showed us around in President Nixon's own personal golf cart; that's what he gets around in. He has his own beach patio overlooking his beach. He has a beautiful view of the beach, also.

When we went in we saw boxes and boxes of valentines and birthday cards sent to him by people who still remember him.

Afterwards, we went to lunch at the San Clemente Inn and saw a mini-museum with President Nixon posed with Brezhnev from Russia. Then we started home and that concluded the trip.

MAKING FRIENDS—Kristin Mohn gets acquainted with ex-President Nixon's dog, King Timaco, on recent visit to San Clemente.

Letters To The Editor

Open Letter of Appreciation

At a recent meeting of the Yorba Linda City Council, discussion was held regarding the February 14th "political robbery" incident at the Bank of America. The City Council is extremely pleased that the potentially perilous situation was successfully resolved with no injuries to either life or property.

On behalf of the City Council, I wish to publicly express gratitude to all individuals, businesses, and public entities which assisted our Police Department in the peaceful apprehension of the hold-up suspect.

While we would like to name the individual businessmen and others who aided in this matter, we would probably unintentionally leave out the names of a few. Therefore, this letter is being published in the newspaper in an effort to convey the sincere appreciation of the Yorba Linda City Council to all who unselfishly assisted in preventing a serious incident from occurring in downtown Yorba Linda.

Sincerely,
Henry W. Wedaa
MAYOR

Thanks To Bev and Bill

Dear Editor:

Two weeks ago Yorba Linda experienced a "Political Robbery" taking place at the Bank of America on Main St. A local business man, Bill Ross, gave law enforcement officers the opportunity of setting up a command post in the Rancho Realty office located across from the bank.

This act of a good citizen should readily be acknowledged by the community since it helped the police to take control of the situation without a single shot being fired or anyone being harmed. (See letter below from Chief of Police Forkus.)

It should be noted that Rancho Realty business came to a sudden stop since all telephones were turned over to the police for several hours.

Bev and Bill Ross should be commended for their unselfish contributions and in behalf of the Yorba Linda Homeowners Association, we publicly wish to thank you both.

Please accept our thanks for your cooperation in allowing us to set up our command post in your office during the incident at the Bank of America on Monday, February 14th. It furnished us an excellent vantage point during our negotiations with the suspect.

We sincerely appreciate you letting us completely take over your office as well as your telephone lines for such an extended period of time. I truly feel that it was a very definite factor in helping us to handle this potentially explosive incident without any injuries or fatalities.

Tax Relief...

It is the general intent of this state that funding for most health, education and welfare related programs should be removed from the property tax.

A limitation on the rate of increase in local spending should be initiated. The growth of local government spending should not exceed the rate of increase in an appropriate cost index and population unless approved by a vote of residents of the affected government agency.

The committee opposes any program of tax relief which ties tax relief to income including a local income tax to fund local government programs.

Commenting on the committee's work, Brea Mayor Pro Tem Sam Cooper, who represents the third supervisory district including Placentia and Yorba Linda on the committee, said that he had made four recommendations on how to provide funds lost by the tax restructuring.

Cooper said, however, that they would not be included in the committee's report because of a decision to separate tax reform from revenue providing measures.

Cooper listed his recommendations as a state owned and controlled lottery with 75 per cent of the profits going to education and 25 per cent to welfare.

He explained that he had originally suggested a tax on tobacco but had dropped that idea when he heard of bootlegging problems in eastern states where the idea was tried.

The third recommendation would be a tax on liquor and the fourth a tax on race track admissions.

"I thought these taxes would not be regressive," Cooper explained.

Members on the committee include two councilmen from the Southern California League of Cities; a member from the Orange County Real Estate Board; representative of the municipal water district, two supervisors, the tax collector, county assessor, Orange County superintendent of schools, the Orange County administrative officer and the county counsel.

OOPS, Again!

The editor also apologizes for taking it for granted that all persons who had taken out nomination papers for the Board of Trustees of the Yorba Linda District Library had filed their papers to compete in yesterday's election. Not so. Incumbents John Hyma and Harold Van Patten, Jr. did not file their papers. The Board of Supervisors declared Shirley DeStefano and Lorraine Byrum elected. They will take their board seats July 1 and were not on the ballot.
